

League Plans Private Session as Italy and Ethiopia Shun Formula

Meeting in Form of Cocktail Party Probably at Home of Secretary General of the League, J. A. C. Avenol.

FRENCH OPTIMISTIC

If Complete Accord of All Is Reached, Formal Solution of Crisis Will Be Sought.

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Geneva, August 2.—Faced with the opposition of both Italy and Ethiopia to their suggestions for a peace formula, leaders of the League of Nations Council today abandoned the idea of a public session of the body today and decided, provisionally, to hold a cocktail party instead.

The cocktail party, they said, probably would be held at the home of J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League. They indicated they hoped delegates might engage in an unofficial discussion at that time of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, the matter which summoned them to extraordinary session in Geneva.

Both Premier Mussolini of Italy and Delegate Telle, Hawariate of Ethiopia were understood to have expressed their opposition of certain phases of a formula prepared in joint conference by diplomats of Great Britain, France and Italy.

The receipt of Mussolini's objection was followed with an announcement by the French that they hoped to have a council session later in the day. The change in this plan for a session was understood to have been influenced by demands by Hawariate for a modification of the formula.

Mussolini's reply to the suggestion was communicated to Premier Laval of France, one of those who had prepared the formula, by Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, another who had taken part in its preparation.

French Optimistic
Despite the fact that Mussolini had balked at accepting the suggestions for a peaceful solution of the conflict with Ethiopia in their entirety, French delegates said they were optimistic, believing the outstanding points would be cleared up rapidly.

Laval said the League of Nations Council definitely would meet today. If the complete accord of all parties, including the Ethiopians, is reached, the session will be public to adopt a formal resolution. If no agreement is achieved, a private session is to be held to put the Council in touch with the situation.

French and Italian experts conferred immediately after the conference between Laval and Aloisi in an effort to agree on the phrasing of the text of the formula. Some of Mussolini's objections had to do with the wording and punctuation of the text.

More serious, however, was the report that Mussolini still was opposed to fixing a definite date for the Council to discuss the Italo-Ethiopian dispute in political negotiations among Great Britain, France and Italy, as provided in the formula, failed to solve the problem.

Laval indicated a complete accord had been reached concerning the method for resuming the arbitration of the frontier clashes which brought the present crisis to its head.

It was reliably learned that the Ethiopian delegation, however, is dissatisfied with the formula in its present shape.

The possibility was seen that the Ethiopians would raise objections either through the delegates or in a private session of the council.

Laval announced he was conferring with Anthony Eden, British minister for League of Nations affairs and the third framer of the formula, and subsequently hoped to confer with Telle Hawariate, the Ethiopian representative.

Observers regarded the formula as a distinct concession to Italy. Although a British spokesman asserted England made no "substantial" concession from its previous firm stand for decisive action in the impasse.

Mussolini apparently succeeded in having his way on most of the controversial points.

League observers said the new resolution yielded to Italy its two chief demands:

1. "Hands off" by the League from examining the entire controversy.

2. Revival of the conciliation commission—limited strictly to determining the responsibility for frontier incidents without discussion of territorial sovereignty.

At Laval's insistence, it was understood, a phrase of an earlier resolution pledging Italy not to resort to force was omitted from the new formula.

"WHO'S WHO" IN PICTURES STARTS MONDAY

Col. Jack Moranx, whose series of pictorial biographies of Ulster County leaders will start shortly in The Freeman, is shown here with a few of his sketches of business and professional men of national prominence.

Rapidly nearing completion today was the Ulster County "Who's Who" being compiled by Col. Jack Moranx, noted artist, preparatory to his series of pictorial biographies which will shortly be presented, day by day, in The Freeman.

Colonel Moranx will make a drawing daily of a prominent resident of Kingston and vicinity, sketching in as well the highlights of his personal or public career. Leaders in community and civic life whose activities have contributed to the growth and development of Ulster county will be the subjects.

In addition to his other gifts, the colonel is an artist who possesses a highly sympathetic attitude toward the person he draws. As a result he presents an understanding picture of the man he interviews.

Colonel Moranx will go into every field in bringing to The Freeman readers the life stories, the hopes and hobbies, the ambitions and achievements of men who have made history here in business, church and public life. Dealing only with the essentials, his pictorial biographies give the highlights of each career.

The outstanding and memorable events will be brought back to the public eye in a series that will be nothing less than a pictorial "Who's Who" of the community.

Albany to Vote on Power.
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—Albany county voters will consider a proposal to put the county in the electric light, heat and power business as a result of a resolution adopted last night by the board of supervisors. The resolution proposes creation of a power authority under the Lehman utility laws passed by the 1934 legislature. The vote on the resolution was 25 to 6. The Democratic members of the board voted "aye" and the six Republican members "no."

Plant Seized in the Shawangunk Mountain Country Said To Be One of Largest Unearthed in Eastern United States.

THREE ARRESTED
Secret Service Men Understood To Have Taken Men To New York For Arraignment.

Caught in the very act, three men were arrested and a counterfeiting plant said to be one of the largest plants ever unearthed in the eastern part of the United States, was seized in the Shawangunk mountain country south of High Falls Thursday afternoon.

The arrest and seizure was made by United States Secret Service men, assisted by State Troopers Arthur A. Relly and John S. Metzger. In High Falls it was reported the Secret Service men had been observed in the locality for several days prior to the raid.

The two troopers when seen this morning stated that they were under pledge of secrecy regarding all details of the affair, but admitted that for the past two days and nights they had been engaged with the Secret Service men in helping locate the counterfeiting gang and their hide-out.

There has been considerable excitement over the matter in the High Falls section, following the raid, however, and from the various stories and rumors afloat it has been possible to gain a certain amount of information which appears to be pretty close to the facts in the case.

It is understood that Secret Service men have been trailing the counterfeiters for a long time and finally had reason to believe that they were operating in this section of the country. The search finally narrowed down to the Shawangunk mountain section in the neighborhood of High Falls, eventually leading to a bungalow on what is known as the road to the Clove Chapel, which branches off from the road between High Falls and Lake Mohawk. The bungalow is situated some distance from the road on the east side, up a steep bank and is within sight of the boarding house known as the Mossy Brook House. One of the old residents of High Falls described the place as "the old DuBois Hornbeck place, on the corner, opposite the Mossy Brook House."

The bungalow is a four room affair and according to reports was rented by strangers about five weeks ago. This would indicate that the plant in question had not been in operation a long while in this locality.

Reports current around High Falls are to the effect that at the time of the raid the plant was in actual operation, turning out $1 silver certificates, with presses running and the room littered with bills in process of drying. It is reported that the raid was a complete surprise and that the three men found working at the plant made no resistance whatever. It is understood that the prisoners were taken at once to New York city for arraignment.

So far as could be learned the plant, including two presses and complete counterfeiting equipment, was capable of turning out bills of various denominations. The work produced is said to have been very clever and so perfect that there was little likelihood of it being detected except at the hands of bankers or other experts. Rumors are that a large quantity of finished bills, amounting in all to many thousands of dollars, was seized.

Announce Arrest Of Mandeville Zenge

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP)—States Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced today the arrest of Mandeville Zenge, 26, sought for questioning about the mutilation slaying of Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

Courtney said Zenge was in custody at the State's Attorney's office and was arrested early today.

The arrest was kept secret until Courtney's announcement.

Zenge was arrested by Captain Dan Gilbert and a police detail at a checker cab garage (4,630 West Madison) at 8:30 a. m. today.

Zenge's arrest was first made known when Captain Gilbert summoned newspaper men to his office.

Unconfirmed reports were that Zenge, riding in a checker cab, was traced to the garage by Captain Gilbert and his men.

Zenge's father and two brothers, who arrived in Chicago last night to aid in the search for Zenge, or establish his death in the lake, were taken to the State's Attorney's office to assist in questioning the prisoner.

During the first questioning, it was announced, Zenge refused to make any statement.

Later Zenge was taken to the detective bureau and left shortly afterward with Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the police homicide squad, without announcement of their destination or purpose.

FIGHT CONTEMPT CITATION FOR MURDER TRIAL STORIES

Angleton, Tex., Aug. 2 (AP)—Six Houston newsmen today fought with legal arguments a contempt citation for publishing forbidden testimony in the Clyde Thompson murder trial here.

The six—George Cottingham, editor of the Chronicle, and Ed Rider, Chronicle correspondent; Max Jacobs, managing editor, and Frank White, correspondent of the Post, and E. M. Pooley, Managing editor, and Harry McCormick, correspondent of the Press—pleaded legal privilege in defying orders of Judge M. S. Munson.

The judge had told reporters at the opening of the trial they would be jailed if their papers published the testimony.

11 Foreign Bird Species in U. S. in 100 Years

Eleven species of foreign birds have been introduced by man into America and naturalized here during the last 100 years, says the Field Museum of Natural History. Specimens of the ten most important of these are displayed in a museum exhibit which, with a similar group of extinct birds added to the ornithological division, serves to illustrate the changes which are gradually affecting the natural fauna of this continent.

Each of the introduced species comes from a country whose climate is similar to that part of America in which the bird now lives.

Two game birds in the exhibit, the pheasant and partridge, were introduced into America for sporting purposes, and because of the annual hunting it is not likely that they will become too numerous. Two kinds of pigeons, the Chinese spotted dove and the ringed turtle dove, as well as a bird called crested mynah, which is related to the European starling, became established in the Far West, as the result of the escapes of caged birds.

The skylark, goldfinch and tree sparrow were deliberately released in the hope they would propagate themselves, the first two for esthetic reasons—song and beauty—and the sparrow due to a belief that it would be beneficial to agriculture as an insect catcher. The one introduced bird not included in the exhibit is the common pigeon, a domesticated form related to the rock dove.

Century-Old Regatta Is Henley-on-Thames Event

Thirty-five miles above London stands the town of Henley-on-Thames, a typical English market town the greater part of the year but once a year the mecca of the nation's rowing men, because of its century-old regatta, notes a writer in the New York Times.

Henley was selected in 1829 as the scene of the first of the Oxford-Cambridge crew races because it was neutral water and one place at which the Thames was both wide and deep enough for the boats. The event became the Henley Royal Regatta after the prince consort became its patron in 1851, and today is one of England's great social events. Not only the colleges of Cambridge and Oxford, but the great public schools of England and the London and provincial rowing clubs send their representatives to the flag-bedecked town in the hope of winning distinction. An international competition, the Henley Regatta, remains English in its atmosphere in the midst of bands that blare out the anthems of foreign nations and voices that shout encouragement in alien languages to the straining oarsmen.

William Phillips, acting secretary of state, said he had received a full report on the anti-Nazi demonstration aboard the liner Bremen at New York and was studying it as a basis for a reply to the German protest. (Associated Press Photo)

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

Chapter 19

DISAPPOINTMENT

ACROSS the six foot gulf, the two men looked at each other. Rex Moore had, in his miraculous act of saving himself, landed on the farther side.

"If anything had happened to you, my dear fellow, I should never have forgiven myself," said Albert. "I am responsible for my men."

"Oh, don't worry!" replied Rex; and, just to show that nothing had happened to him, he leaped over the opening and landed lightly by his employer's side. "You can give me another drink if you like," he said.

"I could do with one now. And then I'll get off to bed."

Mark Albert sat on in his chair for some time after the airman had gone.

There were papers in front of him on his desk, but he was not looking at them. There was a contemplative expression on his face. His eyes were almost shut.

The madman in his brain, fed by the accident, was increasing, was growing beyond control.

While Rex Moore was alive, Laurie would not give a thought to any other man. He knew that beyond a doubt.

If Rex Moore had fallen down on to the floor of the hangar, he would have been dead by now.

The next day Rex Moore again came up to Albert's office in the hangar, and laid on his employer's desk a little bundle of bank notes.

"This is the other half of the money you lent me," he said. "Thank you very much."

"You didn't take long paying it back, Rex," said Albert. He spoke with indulgence, and yet a touch of sarcasm. It was the first time he had called the airman by his Christian name. It seemed as if the accident of the night before had changed their relations.

"I've been lucky in getting several more articles to write," was the reply. "Journalism seems a paying game."

"When you're a public idol, certainly," remarked Albert, with genial cynicism. "It's a different story when you're not; but your brains to sell. Try it, my boy, apart from flying!"

"I know all about that," was the young man's quick rejoinder. "I owe it all to you. I couldn't pay for my flights by writing about them."

"I have told you until I'm tired of it that you needn't worry about money," put in Albert complacently. Then, his voice changed. "You're worth far more than money, Rex. You're an asset—you belong to the nation—to England."

And, apart from the personal madness in his brain, he was speaking the truth. He needed this man more than he needed any man upon earth. And yet he wished him dead.

"REX," he added earnestly, "I definitely want you to put off the Pacific flight. I'm sure it will be best for you, as well as for me. If you wait until we're quite certain about the new fuel. If it comes off, it'll be the biggest triumph for you. If it doesn't, you can do the flight all the same."

Rex Moore shrugged his shoulders; his angry mouth looked petulant as a child's. But, of course, he did know what it would mean to him if the new fuel turned out a success. He would be the first man to fly at a speed hitherto believed impossible. Although he hated this function, he could not deny that it was worth waiting for.

"That's settled, then," said Albert. "By the way, I didn't sack the chap who left the trap open last night. You asked me not to, for one thing. And it turned out to be Flood, the foreman of the hangar, one of the men we could least spare. He was in a terrible state when I told him what might have happened to you."

"Yes, I've seen him," Rex replied calmly. "He's a good fellow, I know. He seemed frightfully upset."

The Colonel Crashed Jail

Now He's New Salvation Army Official

San Francisco (AP)—As a result of his effort "to crash" jail 43 years ago, young George H. Davis joined the Salvation Army. Now, at 61, he becomes director of its world wide evangelistic work.

He is Col. George H. Davis, chief secretary for the army's western United States territory, who has been appointed "international spiritual special" by Gen. Evangeline C. Booth, one of the highest posts received by an American officer.

His conversion came at 16. It was at a Methodist revival conducted by a Quaker minister.

"Boy Preacher" in 1892.

Young Davis turned from the status of a "boy preacher" in Pittsburgh, Pa., to that of Salvation Army soldier in 1892, he recalls, as direct result of arrest of the army's captain there for preaching on a street corner.

"I thought that as a good Christian I ought to go to jail too," he says, "I was afraid the police might pass me up as I was, so I buckled on a drum so I couldn't be missed." It took persistent courage to conduct street meetings in those days. "We were beaten, pelted and made victims of riots," he remembers. "We used to have to look around with our women folk inside a square and go out into mobs howling and shouting they would kill us. It went on until one old man was killed. He died in my arms."

"I'll Be A Bum."

His new work will carry him all over the world.

"I'll be a bum," he laughs, "just a wanderer on the face of the earth." His orders call for him first to spend three months in New Zealand, for which he will sail from here August 20.

Salvation Army work seems to go with his family too. His wife was formerly an officer, and one of his two sons is now one of its captains.

New Criminal Code Announced as Nazi Celebrates First Year

Berlin, Aug. 2 (AP)—Roland Freisler, state secretary for the ministry of Justice, disclosed today that activity against the Nazi party and its organizations will be regarded as treason against the people and will be punished by death under the new criminal code.

"It must be clear that the Nazi movement is the pillar of the German nation and it must be protected by provisions against treasonable activities by the coming code," he said. The state secretary outlined 15 points, many of them dealing with technical questions, to be covered by the forthcoming sweeping penal code. "Treasonable activities against the people are the most severe crimes," he said. "Traitors place themselves outside the community and a severe crime of this kind must be punished with outlaws, including the death penalty."

Severe punishment also would be provided for treasonable action by foreigners, he added, but such action could not be termed treason against the people because foreigners are bound only by an obligation of hospitality, not by ties of allegiance to the nation.

His pronouncement was issued as Nazi Germany observed the first anniversary of the death of Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, but excluded the war veterans who were close to the marshal's heart—the Steel Helmets—from participating in memorial services at his grave.

Flags flew at half mast while memorial services were held at all army garrisons and at various monuments dedicated to the memory of Germany's World War hero and former president.

The day also marked the end of the first year of absolute rule by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. While Von Hindenburg lived, Hitler was only chancellor, but immediately thereafter he assumed sole power.

The Stahlhelm (Steel Helmet) war veterans organization, subjected with Jews and "political Catholics" to the Nazi campaign against "state enemies," were omitted from those permitted to take part in the ceremonies at the Tannenberg memorial where Von Hindenburg was laid to rest a year ago.

While the German press lamented the marshal's passing at a critical period, it was careful to praise Hitler at the same time for taking hold of the reins of state without disturbances which the newspapers said might well have come.

Germany's army, which Von Hindenburg disbanded after the World War, meanwhile, was well on its way to rapid reconstruction. The new army has been spread over the Reich as fast as garrisons can be built. The Doehertiz infantry regiment settled down today in its new quarters at Neustadt, while a section of the provincial police was being taken over formally by the Reichswehr (regular army).

This step was provided for May 21 by a universal training law, proclaimed by the Nazi regime. The Doehertiz regiment was among the first units to occupy a new garrison. The entire German press dedicated its front pages to the memory of Von Hindenburg.

The Volkszeitung compared the former president to George Washington, first President of the United States, saying: "The same words which refer to Washington can be applied to Von Hindenburg. 'First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen.'"

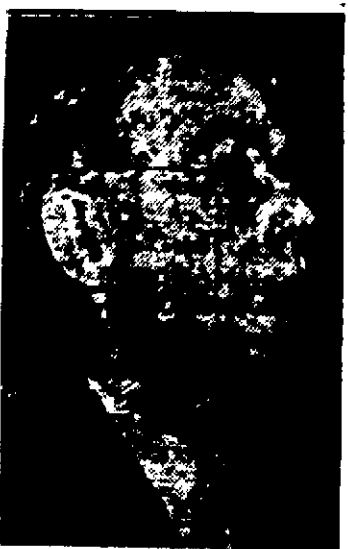

The Catholic newspaper, Germania, reminded the Reich that Von Hindenburg embodied Christianity in Germany.

"His words to Reichsbishop Mueller are not forgotten. 'Please give your utmost attention that Christianity may be preached to the German nation,'" Germania said. "This is our late president's religious testament." Secret police officials denied emphatically that Werner Neumann, killed "as a peace disturber who attacked a secret policeman," was Jewish.

"Werner Neumann was an Aryan and had nothing whatever to do with Jews," said a spokesman for the secret police.

"Stories that he was non-Aryan just amount to atrocity mongering and there is nothing to them." The semi-official news agency published this account: "July 20, about 12:45 a. m. a secret police officer on duty on the Budapeststrasse was bodily attacked upon a flimsy pretext for unpolitical reasons, by Werner, aged 29, religious evangelist. The officer who was knocked down, kicked in self-defense and fired two shots which struck him in the chest. He was brought to a nearby hospital where he succumbed to his wounds."

AMATEUR NIGHT AUGUST 21st AMERICAN LEONOR ARENA

Kiwanis Meeting Was Held at Camp

Kiwanis Club held its regular dinner and meeting at the Kiwanis Camp last night. The 50 boys who are spending a week at camp as guests of the Kiwanis Club enjoyed meeting and entertaining their hosts. The Kiwanis Camp is being held at Camp Pruett, the Y. M. C. A. campsite at Glencliff. The staff of the "Y" Camp is directing the activities of the group with Neeland Fuller as camp director.

After a dinner held in the spacious lodge the Kiwanis boys played the Kiwanis members in a game of softball. The regular five innings the boys played steady ball while the Kiwanians were very erratic but sometimes brilliant. Their play was featured by many errors, and by the only home run of the game when N. J. Fowler belted one into the woods. At the end of the five innings, the score was tied at 9-9 which necessitated an extra inning. The boys squeezed in one run and played a tight ball holding the members scoreless. They won 10-9.

The campfire program followed the ball game with the boys and members alternately giving the entertainment. The boys' program featured a harmonica solo, a solo on baritone horn, vocal quartet, vocal trio and a ghost story.

Morris Samter, president of the club, told the boys that Kiwanis was glad that they could act as host for such a fine group of young fellows. Paul Zucca sang a few numbers asking the whole group to join in with him. Bernard Joy led a period in music appreciation featuring folk songs from many lands. Leon Taylor, music director on the camp staff, received generous applause for two vocal solos. The enjoyable evening was ended when everyone joined in singing "Taps".

Sir Malcolm Coming.

London, August 2 (AP).—Barring a serious hitch in present plans, Sir Malcolm Campbell will sail on August 21 for the United States and attempt to boost his own world automobile speed record on Utah's salt flats. Sir Malcolm and his huge racer, Bluebird, with which he established the present land record of 274.815 miles per hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., early this year, will make the transatlantic crossing on the Majestic.

On The Radio Day By Day

Time is Eastern Daylight.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—When they go back into radio this season, the Mills Brothers are to do their broadcasting for NBC. Their most recent series was with Bing Crosby on CBS last winter.

Beginning Saturday night in the Hit Parade, Kay Thompson, blond singer of this WEAF-NBC series, expects to revive her chorus of 14 girls. They haven't been on the microphone since their appearances in the Fred Waring show on CBS.

The shifting of programs from one network to the other is getting to be more or less of a popular pastime. The latest change is to affect the Court of Human Relations. It will step from CBS, where it is now on Friday night, to the same night on WEAF-NBC beginning September 6.

In deciding to carry on with the late Tom Noonan's Sunday broadcasts from Chinatown's Rescue Mission, WMC, and associated stations have selected Norman Pearce to take charge. Pearce will run the broadcast from the mission much in the manner of Tom. They were quite good friends, and Pearce was announcer for Noonan for years.

PARIS NOW SEEKING NAPOLEON'S EAGLET

Body of Emperor's Son May Return to France.

Vienna.—Prince Bonaparte, head of the deposed French dynasty, has renewed his negotiations with Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, the Austrian pretender, and with Austrian authorities in hopes of hastening "homecoming" of the Eaglet.

The embalmed body of the "Eaglet," son of Napoleon I, will be transferred from the Capuchin Catacombs, from the company of his Hapsburg relatives, to the Dome of Invalides in Paris, to the side of his great father, if the negotiations are successful.

This wish of the Bonapartists was refused in 1932 by the Republican government of Austria. The present government, which has strong monarchical leanings, may raise no objections if the Hapsburgs are willing to deliver up the corpse of the Eaglet to the Bonapartists, whom they fought so desperately a century ago.

Three years ago the hundredth anniversary of the death of the Eaglet was celebrated by France. Next year the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of his birth will be observed.

The Eaglet, who was made king of Rome when he was born in Paris, died as the duke of Reichstadt at the age of twenty-one in the Vienna castle of Schoenbrunn.

After the fall of Napoleon, his son was deprived of everything that might remind him of his father.

He died of consumption, according to the official announcements. It was popular belief, however, that the young prince was poisoned by Prince Metternich, Austrian chancellor.

Wife on World Cruise, Husband Calls Weekly

Chicago.—When Mrs. Albert P. Whitall took a 150-day cruise around the world this year, her husband, Albert P. Whitall of Chicago, spoke to her and their children, a daughter and two sons, every Sunday by radio telephone, establishing what was at that time a new record in long distance wireless telephony. The most distant points of contact were Batavia, Bali, and Zambouanga.

Owing to the difference of time, while Mr. Whitall always spoke on a Sunday, it wasn't always on a Sunday that his calls reached their destination; for as the ship crossed the international date line, it was Monday in that part of the globe when it was Sunday in the United States.

Mr. Whitall made his calls from his home in Chicago just the same as if he were making an ordinary long distance call. Other points of contact were at or near Athens, Cairo, the Red Sea, Bombay, Colombo, Singapore, the Java Sea, Hongkong, Chinwangtao, the Indian Sea of Japan, Yokohama, the Pacific ocean, Los Angeles, Panama, and, finally, a point about midway between Havana and New York.

Police Halt Children's Gold Rush in Brazil

Rio de Janeiro.—Police arrested an English Piped Piper recently as he prepared to lead a children's crusade for gold and diamonds into the wilds of Brazil's Mato Grosso.

Ten boys, ranging in age from thirteen to seventeen, were identified as among his followers. Frantic parents were calling police to ask about their lost offspring.

Harold Boddy was the name the salient, sullen man gave authorities who said he had been "aggravatingly" plying his fabulous dream of gold and diamonds to youths in Rio de Janeiro Minister—That's right. What has been the matter?

Mrs. Thompson—Well, I had tonsillitis to begin with, and then it dropped into my legs.

Business Activity ::

Most Lines Hold Well Above Summer Levels Of Year Ago

(By The Associated Press)

Business activity registered a slight improvement during the month of June over the preceding month, and remained considerably above the corresponding month of 1934. Passenger car and truck production in the United States and Canada in June showed an increase of 9.3 per cent over June of last year, but a decline of 8.7 per cent under May. Electric power production, rising by more than the seasonal amount, was 4.1 per cent higher than the May output, and 6.2 per cent over last year's corresponding month. Although department store sales show a steep decline, allowance for seasonal factors shows them at the same level as the preceding month. They were, however, 8.6 per cent higher than in June, 1934. Steel production was 25.2 per cent lower than in June, 1934, and 9.6 per cent lower than the preceding month of 1935. Residential contracts again increased counter-seasonally and were higher than for any month since October, 1931. Building and engineering contract awards increased 16.8 per cent over May. Rail shipments of all classes of commodities increased 6.1 per cent over May. This was due largely to a further increase in coal loads, although distribution of manufactured goods was 3.1 per cent higher in June than in May.

Fix Water Turns Yeggs From Algerian Crime

Algiers, Algeria (AP)—A case of old champagne, which proved too tempting for a couple of thirsty safe-crackers to resist, saved a local shipper agent $5,000 francs, or close to $5,000.

Two burglars, unsuccessful in their attempt to dynamite his safe, dragged the 900-pound strong box into the street but were at a loss what to do with it.

They spied a case of champagne. Several bottles were opened and then several more. By this time, the intruders found that their burgling philosophy had changed.

In a sudden burst of patriotic fervor, they draped the safe in a French tricolor, and departed.

'Take Power When Laval Falls' Leader Tells French War Heroes

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Paris (AP)—Lt. Col. Francois de la Rocque and his 320,000 men of the nationalistic Croix de Feu movement are waiting to take charge of France if and when Premier Pierre Laval's cabinet eventually falls.

The Croix de Feu are World War veterans who won decorations in battle. Hence their name, "Crosses of Fire." There are two supplementary groups, the active "national volunteers," who average about 30 years of age, and the "national regroupment," made up of sympathizers.

Whether they plan a La Rocque dictatorship, as many believe, their chief carefully refrains from saying. He has spoken, however, of "taking power" and "sending rotten parliamentarianism on vacation for a certain time."

Hints Change In November

La Rocque denies he is against parliament as such, but he is critical of the present parliament and the government. He indicates that a change may be expected in November.

The Laval cabinet, La Rocque says, "is only a temporary expedient in the face of a treasury deficit."

"It is evident the Laval ministry brings us the last, or the next to the last, trial of a system already doomed," he adds.

France's unbalanced budget, with a deficit of at least 11,000,000,000 francs ($728,000,000), including the railroad deficit, is the rock on which La Rocque thinks the Laval government will be wrecked.

His Following Expands

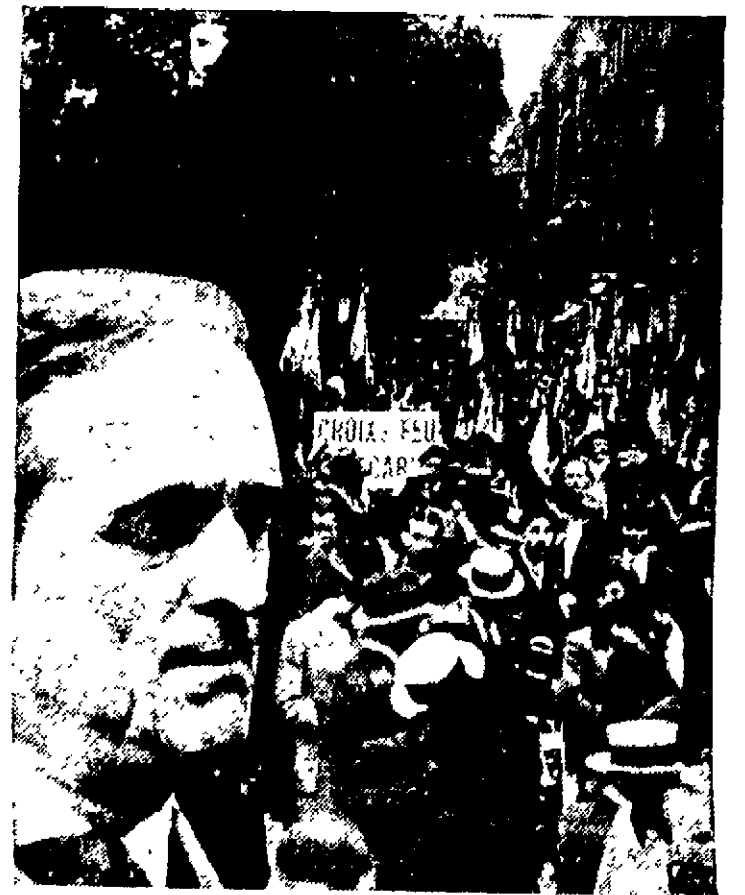

The treasury's needs may be covered "until November by short-term measures and economy cuts, which will be both unpopular and without lasting gains," he declares. "Then the anguishing and inevitable problem will again arise."

The Croix de Feu, whose numbers have grown mightily under the forceful personality of La Rocque since police fired on them in the rioting of February 6, 1934, have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to ward off a leftist attack. For their enemies are the communists, socialists and left-wing radical-socialists, who form a "popular front."

Sees Next Crisis As Final

The next cabinet crisis, La Rocque

They're Prepared For Coup d'Etat

Lt. Col. Francois de la Rocque (left) claims 320,000 followers in a movement of which the core is the "Croix de Feu," composed of French veterans decorated for valor. He demands "durable reform" in politics. The crowd was photographed during a recent demonstration in Paris.

says, will be "the decisive hour for new men and hardy ideas to take power—the hour either to unleash civil war and install Marxist tyranny among us, or to require humanity, but vigorously, violently if necessary, the flight of false leaders, responsible for so many tribulations, the elimination of subversive elements, the recovery of society and the French government and their harmonizing with contemporary aspirations and necessities."

"We are not anti-parliamentarian," La Rocque explained, "in the sense that we do not oppose sincere representation of the people, but we are the enemies of the present parliamentary collapse and of all its causes. We demand a wise, courageous, renovating and durable reform of the constitution and of our political and social life."

Broadway: "Hooray for Love." Ann Sothern, Gene Raymond, Bill Robinson, Pert Kelton, Thureston Hall and a host of RKO Radio chorus girls all have fun in this musical presentation that seems to be more or less of a take off on "42nd Street." The show has some new song hits, well sung by Miss Sothern and Mr. Raymond, but the bouquets for the best performance must be tossed in the direction of Bill Robinson, the colored tap dancing artist, who scores a triumph in this play. The plot centers around the same idea of most musical shows, with a new Broadway hit about to go smash because of no financial backing. Good summer entertainment.

Orpheum: "Folies Bergere." The debonair Maurice Chevalier started in this musical and then departed for his beloved France, saying he was through with the screen until more serious roles could be his. Yet despite Mr. Chevalier's anger, the "Folies Bergere" finds him at his best, in a light, airy musical romance that sparkles with sophistication and color. Playing a dual role as both an entertainer and a French nobleman, the usual tangle occurs with everybody mistaking everybody else for somebody. The dance numbers are eye-dilling and the support of Merle Oberlin and Ann Sothern is something to cheer about. Kingston: "Let's Live Tonight" and "Party Wire." Tullie Carmichael, Lillian Harvey and Tala Birell are to be seen and heard in the opening attraction at the Kingston, a swanky yarn of continental romance wherein two brothers are seeking the hand of the same girl. There are some good lines in this show and a few noteworthy situations, but for the most part, the entire production is sophisticated, breezy and elaborate. "Party Wire" is excellent comedy, a study in what happens in a small town when the gossip listers in at party telephone wires and get the news bawled up. This satire, with numerous laughs and its full share of romance, has a cast that includes Victory Jory, Jean Arthur and Charlie Grapewin.

Tomorrow

Broadway: "Becky Sharp." The full beauty of a new technicolor makes this costume play a milestone in the history of the motion picture art. Done entirely in the richness of natural coloring, it opens up a fascinating field for the future. The story itself is well known, for it is the screen version of "Thackeray's" "Vanity Fair," and the heroine is probably the most noted flirt in the history of the world. Becky Sharp, conceived and concerned only with herself, has kings and noblemen in her grasp through the pleasurable method of making herself attractive in the eyes of men. She weaves her way into the history of Europe at the time of Napoleon and does almost as much damage as the Little Corporal. Yet despite all the history and intrigue of yesterday Europe, the show is noteworthy mostly because of its coloring, so well done that the picture is beautiful to see. The technical staff learned more about the color processes as the film continued, and the latter scenes are even more brilliantly and realistically done than the opening ones. Miriam Hopkins, Allison Skipworth, Cedric Hardwicke, Billie Burke, Frances Dee and a host of lesser players all contribute interestingly done performance. A don't miss attraction.

Orpheum: Same. Kingston: "Escapade." A smart treat is in store for the followers of William Powell and Luise Rainer, his new leading lady, becomes a new screen personality in one of the finest performances the screen has seen in many a warm summer day. It's the story of a man and woman with the one seeking excitement and life and the other asking only for romance. William Powell, cast as a devil may care artist, was never more at home than in this play and his work is consistently good. Miss Rainer, as the girl who teaches him the meaning of love, is both attractive and capable, and a fine supporting cast offers Virginia Bruce, Frank Morgan, Reginald Owen and Mady Christians. Well done entertainment.

Boy Declared First to Discover Gold in West

Danville, Calif.—George Van Gordon, ninety-year-old rancher and horse breeder, arises to say John Marshall was not the first person to discover gold in California.

"It was a ten-year-old boy, John Wimmer," recalled Van Gordon. "His father worked for Gen. John A. Sutter at Coloma. John gave the nugget he found to his father, who gave it to John Marshall, who gave it to Mrs. Wimmer, and she boiled it in the soup kettle. I've heard the Wimmers tell the story many times."

Van Gordon perhaps knows. He came to California in 1846, remembers how everyone abandoned his work and rushed to the gold fields. He remembers Lola Montes, the dancer; Joaquin Murietta, most venerated and dashing of American bandits, and the Vigilantes.

Babies, Nonagenarians Are Flying These Days

Chicago.—An age limit for air travelers?

There is none, say traffic officials of United Air Lines, who report that on consecutive days the company's planes carried a four-day old baby boy (world's youngest air passenger) and a ninety-five-year-old woman.

Karen Snow boarded a plane at Seattle with his mother four days after his birth and flew to San Francisco to greet his father, staff member of a trans-Pacific steamer.

The following day, Mrs. Mary Oliver, in her ninety-fifth year, was a Chicago Cleveland passenger aboard a coast-to-coast flyer.

Botanic Gardens

The million-dollar United States Botanic garden, west of the Capital in Washington, is said to have the most varied and widely collected specimens of plants and flowers in the world. Thirty-six tons of aluminum and 200 tons of structural steel make this conservatory, with its glass towers, great arched bays, border houses, greenhouse and 70-foot cascades, rank as one of the great in the world.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Many chief cameramen in the movies scarcely touch their cameras.

They leave the routine preparatory work to their assistants, concern themselves with lighting and angles, and let the more obvious part of the job be done by others.

But there are some who like to do all the work, from lighting to aligning and sighting—and one of these is Victor Milner, who is Hollywood's foremost camera artist if the academy award for photography conveys that distinction. Milner won it for his work on "Cleopatra."

Should Wear Long Hair

Milner thinks his craft deserves more recognition in the screen credits. The cameraman, he says, is a poor also ran in this matter, getting mention only after director, producer, writer, art director and others have been listed.

He tells about a recent conference of a dozen of the screen's leading photographers wherein someone proposed a resolution that all cameramen should wear beards and long flowing hair. In no other way, was the argument, will they get the recognition they deserve as artists. Milner voted against it, and now is a bit sorry that he did, he says smilingly.

"I'm not seeking personal credit," he says, "but I do think our work should be given more appreciation. I am convinced that the reason some people don't like a certain picture is that its pictorial qualities were poor."

Photography Great Factor

"Good photography, which means proper composition and pleasing light and shade values, is in my opinion as great a factor in the success of a picture as the story and direction. I know few directors and actors will agree with me. Yet it is amusing to me to hear some story every day or so about a director or actress fighting to obtain the services of a cameraman they respect."

Etienne Girardot is a diminutive fellow who has been getting laughs in many movies recently. A scene for "Glitter" called for the little French character actor to peek over the back of a mountain burro. But the top of his head just reached the animal's back.

They brought a ladder—of three steps—and Etienne stood on the top rung for the scene.

Romance note: Jackie Searl sent Jane Withers a corsage the other night—first she ever had.

Dick Thorpe, the director, need never be troubled by insomnia since he returned from his South Sea location. An old native doctor gave him a "sleeping jar"—containing dried leaves of the so-called "sleeping flower," whose strong sweet odor is soporific. All you have to do is take out the stopper.

Helping Wars On Stray Dogs
Peiping (AP)—More than 13,000 dogs have been registered by their owners with city officials since inauguration of the "war on worms" last year. The campaign against curs has resulted in the rounding up of 520 ownerless canines, but thousands of mongrels still prowl the alleys.

New England's six governors will be present at the opening of the Eastern States Exposition at Springfield, Mass., for the Governors' Day observances of Sunday and Monday, September 15 and 16; tentative acceptance have also been received from Governor Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey and Governor C. Douglas Hark of Delaware. New York will be represented by Lieut. Governor M. William Bray and Governor George H. Earle of Pennsylvania will be represented by J. Hansell French, secretary of agriculture.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Dinner modes

"Go glamorous" in transparent velvet.

Liana Mauer

In viewing the new showings for fall, fabric interest is an important feature—with shirring, pleating, stitching and draping much used in designing.

Fabrics are quite gay with velvets prominent, metallics highlighted and novel crepes sprinkled in between. Old-time velvet and a sparkling metallic are combined to make the gown more interesting.

Charming transparent velvet shading from green to blue as the rays of light strike it is used for this beautiful dinner gown of floor length.

The stitched treatment that gives a corded effect on the long pointed collar is repeated on the belt. The half sleeves are puffed in a soft manner, two clips accenting the square front neckline, while the bodice at back is slashed.

Colors are very rich in tone this season, added by the Italian Renaissance influence, which is so strongly stressed in the fashion picture for fall. Green, blue, many tones of wine, royal purple, gold all in the church window tones are evident with black, of course, a first choice.

Blind Husbands, Happy Wives Form Model Yugoslav Village

By ALVIN STEINKOFF

Belgrade (AP)—It is said of the interesting village of Vetrenik, near here, that all its husbands are blind, and all its wives happy.

There is no doubt about the blindness of the men, for they are Yugoslav veterans whose sight was destroyed on world war battlefields. The boast that all wives are happy seems borne out by smiling faces at kitchen doors.

One honorary citizen of Vetrenik is blessed with keen sight. He is Dr. Veyko Ramadanovitch, a sort of an extraordinary mayor, matrimonial agent, and counselor of the community.

King's Dream Comes True

Vetrenik is one of the dreams of the late King Alexander which came true. He founded an institute for blind veterans at Zemun, and then approved the suggestion of Dr. Ramadanovitch, that a model village be established.

Vetrenik started seven years ago with 30 men. The government gave each a cottage, several acres and equipment for light farming. "But they ought to have wives," said the king.

"We'll find wives if we have to kidnap them," the doctor replied.

But kidnapping wasn't necessary. Advertisements written by Mrs. Ramadanovitch did the trick. Thirty women were needed, and 60 responded.

Doctor Pairs 'Em Off

"I was surprised by the good looks of the girls," Dr. Ramadanovitch reflected. "All were attractive. Our blind men didn't get left over."

"We didn't take time for courtship or romance. I sized them up, paired them off and rushed them to the chapel. I gave away every bride, and served as best man as well."

Dr. Ramadanovitch was an excellent match maker. Not a person has asked for divorce. One bride died. More than a hundred children have been born, and not one of them is blind.

Vetrenik is one of Yugoslavia's most prosperous communities. The government guarantees a market for all its products.

France Jails Accordion Player.

Paris (AP)—Music may have charms, but discipline comes first in the French army so a republican guard who left his post to give an accordion recital was sentenced by the Paris military tribunal to three months' imprisonment.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1682-B

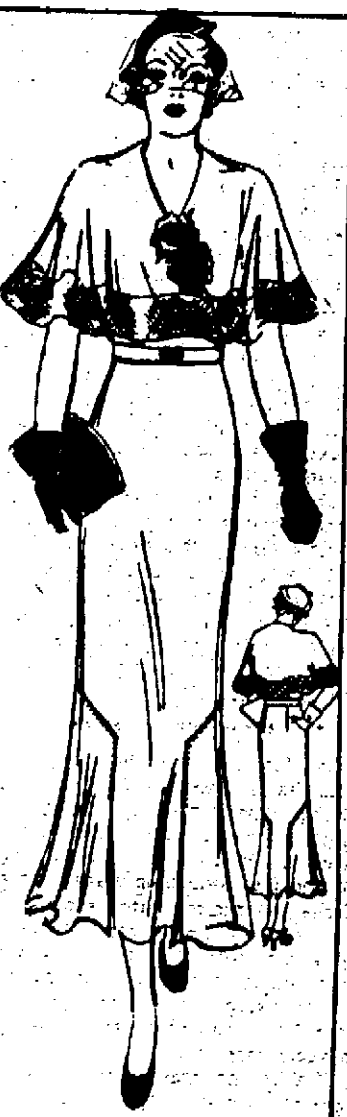

Afternoon Dress for the Older Woman

Hot summer afternoons make special demands on the wardrobe of the average woman. There must be dresses that are not too elaborate, or too fancy in detail, to make her appear at her best. But she should have things that are soft and gracious in line, and are quite different from the sports dresses, in which she spends most of her days. This season the gracious afternoon frock is more apparent, where smart women gather together, than in many seasons passed.

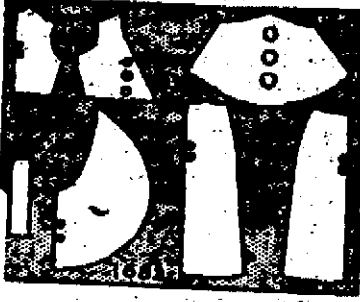

Capes are important in the mode. The cape in today's illustration reaches almost to the waist, and quite to the elbows, and is edged with a wide band of net, or any transparent material.

Sheer materials are much used for afternoons. Chiffon, of course, is a summer favorite, and marquisette is a newcomer to the mode. Cotton voile is much liked, and the synthetic sheers have their own special place in the fashion, and are greatly liked.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1682-B is designed in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48. Size 36 requires 5 yards of 36-inch material, and 1/4 yard of 36-inch for contrast.

Rochelle, Once Star Of 'Stillies,' Proves Posers May Get Plums

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There is comfort for the "stars of the stillies" in the rise of Rochelle Hudson.

For that matter, they can take hope from the successes of numerous other girls who once faltered their studio duties simply by posing for the still cameraman.

Even Toby Wing, Hollywood's currently most photographed girl, can look at Rochelle and the others and see, perhaps, an end to her apprenticeship.

When actresses get to be something of a name in moving pictures, they seldom have time or inclination to lend their services to still ones. And because the studios want to have a steady supply of attractive "art" to keep their names before the public, they turn to the younger girls on the contract lists.

Held The Firecrackers

Not long ago Rochelle Hudson was a "stillie" star. At Fox, and then at her to quit. The Hudson girl is a movie star now instead of a "stillie" star.

Rochelle Hudson... she petted Easter bunnies, trimmed Christmas trees, wore bathing suits while waiting for her chance in pictures.

There was a time, over at Warner Bros., when Myrna Loy, between oriental siren duties, accommodated—served as a star of the stills.

Toby The Champion

Out at Metro, Ann Dvorak always obliged for a "gag" picture, and now she's a Warner star. Bette Davis, in her time at Universal, starred in many a still.

But Toby Wing undoubtedly has the championship. She has been photographed meeting new stars, cutting hedges, balancing on a pyramid of rubber balls, by aid of a concealed stepladder—trying on trick jewelry, shaking hands with athletes, training with Paramount's athletic director, fishing, boating, swimming—well, you name a photographic "gag" and the chances are Toby has done it.

Spinach prices varied greatly due to the wide range in quality and condition. Hudson valley Clapps Favorite pears were in relatively light receipt.

Hudson Valley apple supplies continued light, but were gradually increasing. The finest transparent apples U. S. No. 1, 2 1/2 inch minimum in bushel tubs jobbed out at $1.25-50 and the 2 1/2 inch $1-$1.25.

Hudson Valley berry receipts were relatively light today.

White cabbage continued inactive because of the light demand. Upstate New York early variety white cabbage of attractive quality, packed in sacks containing about 50 pounds jobbed out from 40-45 cents.

The market for cauliflower was steady. The best cauliflower realized $2.42 50 per crate, while poorer sold down to $1.

The market for Big Boston lettuce was generally dull. Crates of 2 dozen heads from the western part of the state jobbed out from 60-85 cents, occasionally as high as 87 1/2c-$1.

Onion market was slightly weaker. Orange county, N. Y., yellow onions U. S. No. 1, in 50 lb. sacks brought 75-85 cents while most of the No. 1 sold around 75 cents.

White onions brought 75c-$1.25, while boiler whites brought $1.25-50.

Father of Zenge to Assist in Police Probe

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP).—J. Andy Zenge, Canton, Mo., farmer, came to Chicago today to assist a police investigation of his son's possible connection with the mutilation operation which killed Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

He said his son, Mandeville, 26, missing after leaving a note indicating he would leap into Lake Michigan off the Navy Pier, "is a good boy and had nothing to do with this doctor's death."

Asked whether he believed his son committed suicide, he replied: "This is one of the main things I want to find out."

Detroit police today arrested a man they said resembled the missing man. Picked up in the Grand Trunk Railroad station there, he was held while an attempt was made to identify him by fingerprints.

Chicago police accepted the suicide note as authentic as far as the authorship was concerned, but some officials doubted the missing man killed himself and branded the note an attempt to throw searchers off the trail.

Detroit, Aug. 2 (AP).—Detectives who investigated the identity of a man arrested in a railroad station here today said they were convinced he is not Mandeville Zenge, sought for questioning in the slaying of Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

The man said his name was Russell Howitt, 22, of Ypsilanti, Mich.

NEW YORKER WANTS TO GO OVER NIAGARA IN BARREL

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—Leslie L. Kaczander of New York city wants to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel. He has requested the Chamber of Commerce to sponsor his stunt and give him financial backing.

The Chamber announced today it would have nothing to do with such a stunt, saying it was too dangerous and also against the law.

"Five persons have gone over the Horseshoe Falls in barrels and three have lived to tell about it. The first one to try it, Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor of Bay City, Mich., was successful."

The last trip over the falls was made in 1930 by a Buffalo, N. Y., man. His barrel stood the smashing ride over the cataract, but he was suffocated before the barrel could be brought ashore downstream.

NOTED PAINTER, CHIEF JUDGE OF BEAUTIES

Norbert Heermann of Woodstock, well known figure painter, has been invited to act as chief judge at the Miss Ulster Bathing Beauty contest to be held at Plumley's pool in Woodstock on August 11. The contest will be run in conjunction with the water show at the beautiful 300 foot pool.

For the diving exhibitions, an especially constructed high platform tower has been put in place and all the diving boards are ready. The 300 foot pool is 125 feet wide and the clear water is fed in through underground springs.

Aquatic stars from various sections of the state will be on hand to entertain the large crowd of swimming fans.

There will be no entry fee for the girls in the beauty contest.

Poet Goes To Hospital

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Maxwell Bodenheim, the poet and novelist who recently applied for home relief, was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital early today after a friend found him on the sidewalk in Greenwich Village. Dr. Livotti of Columbus Hospital, who attended the author, said he was suffering from acute alcoholism. He also had an abrasion on the forehead.

Ex-Congressman Buried

Westfield, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP).—Simply and unostentatiously as was his wish, the funeral of Frederick H. Gillett, former congressman, speaker of the House and United States senator, took place this afternoon in the home of his sister, Mrs. Lucy D. Gillett. Municipal business was officially suspended here during the funeral. Burial was in the family lot in Pine Hill cemetery.

Jap Fleet Leaves Tokyo

Hayama, Japan, Aug. 2 (AP).—The combined first and second Japanese fleets steamed out of Tokyo Bay today, heading for their annual maneuvers in the northwest Pacific, after passing in informal review before Emperor Hirohito. The emperor, attired in a white naval uniform, watched through binoculars from the imperial summer villa here early today as the 60 vessels went by in majestic battle formation.

They're using the X-ray now to find flaws in steel and stone, but nobody has thought yet of applying it to melons.

MARVELOUS LIFE IS LED BY THE OYSTER

Changes From Male to Female and Back Again.

London.—The curator of the aquarium at the London zoo is astonished to find how little people know about that luscious bivalve the oyster. So with the aid of Doctor Orton, head of the British government survey at Plymouth, he writes a romantic biography in the Observer of London:

"The oyster starts its life as a free-swimming organism, keeping itself aloft and moving in the water for about a fortnight by means of the cilia, its fairy-like paddles, in energetic motion. Gradually its developing body becomes heavier, the weight becomes too much even for its most strenuous efforts, and it sinks to the bottom or until it touches some solid object."

"On its luck, for one can describe it in no other fashion, at this stage depends its future existence. Landing on mud or soft sand, its doom is sealed and many millions of oysters in this fashion perish annually."

American Experts' Ways.

"For cheapness and for ease of detachment of the developing oysters the American experts have lately used the rectangular cardboard egg holders from egg boxes similarly coated with lime and sand."

"Once settled the oyster has literally nothing to do but eat and grow. Its one occupation in life is to strain gillion after gillion of water through its filtering mechanism, which retains the minute food organisms and passes them on into the mouth of the animal."

"Its one protection against its enemies is its hard shell and the ability to keep the two halves firmly closed by the adductor muscle. Crabs, however, can break it open. Starfish may either pull the shell apart, or by means of a convenient arrangement, when the oyster is too big and strong for this operation, and equally too big to swallow, they may evert the stomach and engulf the unfortunate oyster, until at last, compelled to open its shells for fresh supplies of oxygen, it is attacked, weakened, and finally destroyed by the digestive juices."

"In its second summer the oyster reaches maturity, and it is with the investigation of this period of its life that Doctor Orton has been chiefly associated. The oyster is not a hermaphrodite, nor is it propagated by division. It is bisexual; but any one oyster does not belong to one sex throughout its life."

Transformation of Sex.

"At first maturity the oyster functions as a male. Within six weeks of that time it may be a female carrying a full complement of developing embryos. When these last are ready for the free swimming stage they are discharged into the water, and the parent, its duty done, again becomes a male and goes into a resting stage from which it will not emerge until the following summer, or, possibly, a year later than that, when the cycle is again repeated."

"Unlike the eggs of most fish, the eggs of the oyster are fertilized within the body of the parent, where they are retained until the developing embryos, of which there may be a million or more, have actually reached the form of small oysters. They are not, however, immediately extruded into the water, but first spend an intermediate existence in the mantle cavity of the parent, where they may continue to develop actually in water, but under fully protected conditions."

"At first, unless examined under the microscope, they resemble a milky fluid, and to those in the trade the oyster is then known as 'white sick.' As the shell develops, the mass becomes gray, and then dark, when the parent oyster is described as 'black sick.' At the end of this stage the young oysters are literally blown into the water, thereafter to fend for themselves."

Move to Save Pictures by Prehistoric People

Olympic, Wash.—Mythic picture writing on walls of the Columbia river canyon, dating from the prehistoric past, may be preserved in pictures, despite rising waters from the Grand Coulee dam.

Secretary of State Ernest Hitchcock urged that photographing of the untranslated writings be made a state relief project.

"These rock writings contain the secrets of the earliest human race in this state," he said. "They will be permanently inundated by the Coulee dam, and it would be a crime not to preserve a complete record of these petroglyphs and petrographs."

Hitchcock believed deciphering of the writings by future students might solve the riddle of an ancient race that preceded the American Indians.

Texas Syndicate to Hunt Pirate Gold

Waller, Texas.—Private gold has lured searchers to Lake Charrette to raise a ship that was sunk more than a century ago.

E. M. Sherman, local resident, found the ship and discovered a sailing ship in the report that the boat was taken with gold.

Operations have been started to raise the 70-foot vessel from 36 feet of mire. Work was retarded, however, by recent high water, resulting from heavy rains.

Little, 71, of Brookline, a member of the Corporation of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and internationally famous chemical engineer, died yesterday at his summer home at Northeast Harbor, Me. It was announced here today. He died after contracting a heart attack.

"WENT TOO FAR," SAYS SOMERS OF COINAGE COMMITTEE.

Washington, August 2 (AP).—Disappointed because the House coinage committee tabled its midget coin bill, the treasury department is renewing its effort for fractional-cent pieces.

Chairman Somers (D-NY) of the coinage committee, said the midget coin measure was put aside because it "went too far." The bill, he said, was not specific. It was so framed as to authorize coinage of any denomination between one cent and one mill (one-tenth of a cent).

"If the treasury department asks for a specific coin and can show us there is a real need for it we will be glad to cooperate," he said.

The bill turned down yesterday was one asked by Secretary Morgenthau to enable the treasury to coin fractions of pennies. They were declared to be needed to facilitate the payment of sales taxes.

Italian Art in Winter Fashions.

Paris, Aug. 2 (AP).—Italian renaissance robes and colors gave evidence of their influences over 1935 winter fashions today as a result of Premier Benito Mussolini's exhibition of Italian art in Paris. Evening gowns of red and changeable taffeta appeared, fashioned with tight bodices, floor-length pleated skirts and puffed renaissance sleeves of changeable velvet. Other evening frocks were of new taffeta and velvet in the tone of Fra Angelico blue, or changeable silks embroidered with lame figures to suggest old Italian brocades. The renaissance vogue for embroideries also was revived by the use of both black and colored embroidery.

Raiders Break Up Meeting

Santa Rosa, Calif., Aug. 2 (AP).—Vernon Healey, 45, a candidate for state senator on the Communist ticket last year, was recovering today from a beating received when a band of 250 men broke up a meeting reportedly called in connection with a strike of apple packers. The invaders, armed with clubs, entered the hall and ordered women and children to leave. A free-for-all fight started when Louis Lagomarsino, Communist candidate for assemblyman in 1934, attempted to speak.

Huey's Men Clean House

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 2 (AP).—Senator Huey P. Long's state administration was busy today discharging city employees of New Orleans who are friendly to his political enemy, Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley. The first batch, including a brother of the Mayor, was disposed of last night when applications of 70 persons for State Civil Service Commission approval as city employees were rejected.

PROTESTS AGAINST BILL FOR BULK LIQUOR SALES

Augusta, Me., Aug. 2 (AP).—Governor Louis J. Brann, in a letter of protest to the Congressional Finance Committee against the bulk liquor sales bill now before Congress, today said he believed "the evils existing prior to prohibition would return" if the measure became law.

The letter was taken to Washington by John F. Casey of Bath, counsel for the Maine State Liquor Commission.

"In my opinion," the governor said, "if this bill were enacted by Congress, it would impose a tremendous burden upon the police agencies of the Federal and State Government in order to prevent transportation of liquors in bulk intended for illegal sale."

"It would further break down and tend to destroy our state control system."

"I am strongly of the opinion that if sales were permitted in bulk, the evils existing prior to prohibition would return."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JACOB

New York, August 2 (AP)—The utilities and scattered specialties kept bullish stock market free burning today.

Issues of the power companies took a turn for the better on Washington developments and selective demand pushed other equities into higher territory. At the same time, some of the recent favorites were subjected to profit taking. The trading pace was slower than in the preceding session.

Shares up fractionally to around 2 points included Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Commonwealth & Southern Preferred, United Corp. Preferred, Greyhound Corp., Collins & Aikman, Celanese, Interohioh Rapid Transit, Industrial Rayon, Atlantic Refining, Sears Roebuck, Island Steel, American Rolling Mill and Republic Steel Preferred.

Among losers up to around a point were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, Westinghouse and Peoples Gas.

Wheat pointed downward at Chicago and cotton was without animation. Bonds were about steady. The foreign exchange dealing.

Rail stocks were inclined to mark time, the majority being virtually unchanged.

The utilities drew fresh comfort from the second defeat in the House of the holding company bill's "death sentence" clause and the belief was expressed in some financial quarters that the measure, shorn of the administration's favored proposal, now has a good chance of dying in conference.

Contributions to The Red Cross

Reports from chapters in New York state on August 1 total $205,591.95 in the relief fund for the Southern New York Flood Relief. In addition to this the national treasury of the Red Cross has contributed $25,000. D. N. Mathews, chairman of the local chapter, asks that those who wish to contribute to the local chapter's quota do so now by sending in contributions to the local office at 260 Fair street in the Uptown Postoffice building or by leaving their contributions at the office. There is much work to be done in restoration of homes in the flood area and no Federal funds are available. This work is being done by the American Red Cross through donations received.

The original estimate of a $350,000 fund to meet the needs of the flood affected families still stands after a complete survey of the flood area. The only source from which these families may secure aid in the restoration of their homes is the Red Cross.

The campaign for funds will close on August 8, one month from the date of the disaster, and the local quota is still unfulfilled. A final appeal is made for funds so that the Ulster County Chapter may again fill its obligations and aid the stricken families.

Contributions may either be mailed to the local office or left mornings.

NEW SOLID GASOLINE IS NOT EXPLOSIVE

Incendiary Bullets Fail to Explode Substance.

New York.—Four incendiary bullets from an army rifle were fired from 25 feet into a five-gallon can of solidified gasoline by Clyde Pangborn, round the world flyer. It did not explode. Indeed, it was not until the fourth shot, when some of the substance had been liquefied by pressure and spilled on the ground, that it even ignited.

Then it was easily put out by stamping it into the bank of earth in front of the Guggenheim school of aeronautics at New York university, where the experiment took place.

Meanwhile, inside the laboratory of the school some of the same fuel—a reddish, jellylike substance—was running a single cylinder test engine, just as liquid gasoline would run it.

Result of Long Study.

The fuel, called Solene, is the result of a series of experiments lasting since 1910, by Dr. Adolph Prussing of New York. Tests have been conducted at the school of A. M. Troschkin under the direction of Dr. Alexander Klemin, head of the laboratory. On the small test engine, 2.41 horse power was produced at 1,125 revolutions per minute with a consumption of 32 pounds per horse power hour with liquid gasoline. With the solid fuel 2.26 horse power was produced at 1,065 revolutions with a consumption of 71 pounds per horse power hour.

"The reduction in fuel consumption with solid gasoline," the report of the tests says, "cannot be taken as the basis for assuming that a similar saving will be obtained in large engines whose present consumption with liquid gasoline is of the order of .55 pounds per horse power per hour. In such engines the difference may be very small."

Stays Solid on Hot Plates.

Possible fuel economy is only a minor advantage which is hoped from the solid fuel, however, Doctor Prussing explained. He believes it will have wide uses in the domestic as well as the automotive field, since it can be stored without danger of explosion and will not burn even if subjected to a high degree of heat unless flame is actually applied to it.

To demonstrate this feature a lump of the substance was placed on a hot plate under which a flame jet was burning vigorously. The material retained its form, not melting as would lard or grease, and could be cut with clean edges. When ignited with a match it could be blown out with a puff of breath.

Should the solid fuel fulfill the expectations which have been aroused for it in the test engine at the New York university, when applied in larger multi-cylinder engines it would obviously have a great influence on the safety factor of flight.

When Infant Cries It's Sign Youngster Is Smart

Chicago.—The infant that wails when strangers appear or "expresses irritability" when taken to strange surroundings is, in all likelihood, a more intelligent child than the baby who is placid on all occasions, said Dr. Mandel Sherman, educational psychologist at the University of Chicago, in a public lecture on the campus recently.

"Crying and other symptoms of irritability are probably related to general alertness and responsiveness to sensory stimulation," said Doctor Sherman. "Alertness and responsiveness have been shown in studies of somewhat older children to be related to intelligence."

Indian Finds Gold Medal Weighing a Half Pound

Holidsville, Okla.—A half-pound gold medal bearing the inscription "Zachary Taylor, President of the United States, 1849," is owned by Roman Yahola, Indian.

The medal, believed to be an award for service or an act of heroism, was found by Yahola in an old farmhouse. Seeking shelter from heavy rain, Yahola stumbled across a pile of clothing and old papers in a deserted house. The medal was found under the heap.

Scientist Captures Free Electricity

New York.—A scientist's dream—harnessing sunlight as a source of electricity—has come true.

"Free electricity," drawn from sunlight, in an ordinary electric bulb!

Dr. Colin G. Fink, professor of electro-chemistry at Columbia university, showed how his latest development, the "vac converter cell" had tripled the amount of electricity he could gather from the sun's rays.

Doctor Fink placed his cell on a window sill. Attached to a terminal of the apparatus was an ordinary bulb and a galvanometer—for measuring the strength of the current.

He pulled up a shade, allowing the light to strike the cell. The sensitive galvanometer immediately noted a flow of electricity. A moment or two passed. Then the filament in the bulb began to glow.

Doctor Fink said he can now collect only 1 per cent of the solar radiation, but hopes to do better.

EX-HONOLULU POLICEMAN SAYS HE'S NOT MURDERER

Honolulu, Aug. 2 (P)—William Corum, 37, former Honolulu police officer, today protested from a jail cell his innocence of the death of his first wife a month ago, while at Waikiki. His second bride of ten days was in a honeymoon cottage.

"I'm not the one, boys," he was quoted as telling officers who arrested him. He reiterated his claims of innocence to newspaper men as he told them he was a nephew of Bill Corum, New York Journal sports writer, and a family friend of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He was to be arraigned for plea on the murder charge today.

Mrs. Marjorie Corum, 27, superintendent of nurses at Queens Hospital, was found shot to death at their home July 3. After a brief investigation officers termed the death a suicide.

A week later Chief of Police W. A. Gabrielson announced a second investigation of the death, and during it Corum resigned from the police force.

A third investigation, this by the county prosecutor's office, disclosed that Corum had married Catherine Lane of Honolulu, July 23, after obtaining a license at suburban Pearl City. Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician, reported he was unable to find powder burns on Mrs. Marjorie Corum's body.

Corum, the son of J. R. Corum, Castalian Springs, Tenn., farmer, attended the David Lipscomb school in Nashville and a business college in Bowling Green, Ky. He came to Honolulu about seven years ago.

Now That Huey Runs New Orleans, Louisiana Nearly Absolute Monarchy

He Makes Other State Bosses Seem Like "Pikers"

Curly-haired Huey Long, the swarming orator, the filibuster, the uncrowned king of Louisiana... How did he get that way? How much power does he hold in those nervous fingers? How long will he sit on his home-made throne? Ralph Wheatley, chief of The Associated Press bureau in New Orleans, considers these questions in the following article.

By RALPH WHEATLEY
(Chief Of Bureau, The Associated Press, New Orleans)

New Orleans (P)—Under the rule of Huey P. Long, the state of Louisiana has been turned into as near an absolute monarchy as is possible on the soil of the United States.

Long dominates every public function except the church and the press. Ironically, his latest acquisition of power came on Independence day, when, through his legislature, he took over control of motion pictures through a board of censorship and placed under his jurisdiction all school teachers and every other non-elective employes of the state, parishes and municipalities.

Capture of New Orleans
Before Huey's latest trip to Louisiana, the city of New Orleans, under the leadership of Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley, represented an organized hotbed of anti-Longism. When he left Louisiana July 17 the Walmesley organization was wrecked and control of the city of a half million population was in his grasp.

Walmesley still was mayor in title but Long had stripped him of almost every vestige of power. Long took over the purse of New Orleans by placing taxes and licenses under state control. By the same means he obtained control of the city policemen and firemen, the sewerage and water department and he can control all other departments by controlling the money.

Through his legislature he can do the same to any other city. Long's Duration
How long will he last? His devoted followers say he will grow in power until he dies. His enemies say he will collapse at the next election.

Persons who think in terms of practical politics say it will take a long seige to "break him." They explain that Long has all that goes to make a strong political organization—money, jobs, control of police and militia, and control of election machinery. He has a ruthless knack of punishing his enemies and holding out a liberal hand to his friends.

Only one organization threatens to stop him—the Square Deal association. This group, organized in every parish, is working under cover to defeat Long's candidates for the state legislature, on the assumption that if he is stripped of legislative control his temple will crash.

Other Bosses "Pikers"
Another hope of the anti-Longs is in the break between Long and the national administration.

There have been other state bosses, but never did they have Huey's power. If they could rise from their graves, Penrose of Pennsylvania, Tweed of New York, Hannan of Ohio, Sullivan of Illinois, and Taggart of Indiana would cast an eye toward Louisiana and brand them "pikers" as bosses.

They bossed controlling factions but they had real battles at the polls. Never did they think they could absorb a whole state's activities with only feeble opposition.

Huey Long has done this. With a yawn, he mutters:
"It looks like the show is over. Everybody is for Huey Long."

Has Eye On Presidency
Who is Huey Long?
He was christened Huey Pierce Long in the Baptist church 42 years ago. His father grubbed for a living on a pig farm in the red hills section of middle Louisiana. He was poorly educated in the country schools, had one year at college and one year at law school.

He became a book salesman, a hard salesman, a politician, a governor, a United States senator and then boss politician of the state. He is classed as an able lawyer, a champion stump speaker and a cunning political strategist.

He cherishes the presidency of the United States. Falling in that, he hopes to be a President-maker.

National Ulster Bank Remodeling Recalls Changes

The Stroller paused for a few moments Thursday to view the work of remodeling the building, corner of Wall and John streets, occupied by the National Ulster County Bank, and his mind went back to other days.

Looking backward 50 years and raising the curtain on the scene as it was then he saw a building of red brick, instead of "White Bank" building which now occupies the premises. The first floor of this building then, as now, was occupied by the bank, with entrance on Wall street, but turning the corner he saw an entrance on John street, which bore the number 43. To the west of this entrance was a large room, with many windows, which later for years was occupied as a barber shop by the late John Dorsey; subsequently the American Express Co. had an agency there. Next door and to the eastward was the building of which the late Howard Myer afterward became proprietor. He it was who originated the brand, "Chief Judge" cigars, in honor of the late Alton B. Parker, at the time he was elevated to the chief judgeship of the court of appeals of the state of New York.

The John street entrance to the bank opened on a flight of winding stairs at the top of which, about 25 years ago, DuBois G. Atkins had an office and a hallway extending toward the west led to office of Milton O. Auchmoody. At the corner, on the second floor, a suite of rooms for many years held the offices of the law firm of Linnos & Van Buren. Senator John J. Linson had been a partner of Judge Augustus Schoonmaker, the partnership having been formed in 1876. This partnership continued for seven years and in 1883 the senator formed a partnership with Augustus H. Van Buren. For a time their practice was conducted on John street, in a building which later became the meeting place of Pratt Post, G. A. R. Arthur C. Connelly was associated with the firm of Linnos & Van Buren while they were located in the late Judge Schoonmaker's office. Christopher K. Longmire, now clerk of the supreme court, shortly after his admission to the bar, became associated with Linnos & Van Buren. For a time Attorneys Arthur E. Rose and Charles Dey also had offices in the building, which is at present being remodeled.

In 1912, after his admission to the bar, Attorney Roger H. Loughran, who now occupies the offices for many years, occupied by the late Judge A. T. Charwater, by the Ulster County Savings Institution building, joined Senator Linson and continued with him until the senator's death in August, 1915. After Senator Linson died, Mr. Loughran formed a partnership with Alfred D. Van Buren, now practicing in New YORK CITY, WHICH CONTINUED AT 43 JOHN STREET UNTIL MR. LOUGHRAN'S ENLIGHTENMENT IN THE WORLD WAR IN 1917.

Attorney John M. Coshin for a time was associated with Senator Linson in the office in the bank building. It seemed to the Stroller, as he reflected, that the work of reconstructing the bank building to house offices on the second floor was a tribute to the past and he sadly concluded that it was unfortunate that many of the fine characters who had lived and worked in the old building could not be easily be recreated.

DELAWARE ENGINEERS ON THEIR WAY TO PINE CAMP

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 2 (P)—Twenty-five United States Army trucks, carrying part of the First Engineers Regiment from Fort du Pont, Del., passed through here at 7:15 a. m. (E. S. T.) today, en route to Pine Camp.

The engineers, who had stopped overnight at Nicholson, Pa., were escorted through the city without stopping by state troopers. They were planning to stop for lunch in Ulster, where they expected to arrive shortly before noon.

The men will assist in preparing Pine-Camp for the maneuvers later this month.

"TOOK ALL KINDS OF PILLS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF"

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder:
"I have had trouble" with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief.

"One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."—Mrs. Sallie Snyder, 218 N. Craft Ave., Hollywood, Cal.

"Constipation due to insufficient 'bulk' is made."

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN results digestion better than the "bulk" in many vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of potent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green packages. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A Communist Call.

Moscow, August 2 (P)—The Communist parties of all nations were called today to join in a defense of the democratic system of government, wherever menaced by Fascism, under a resolution adopted by the Comintern (International) Assembly. The resolution was passed last night, following recommendations by William Pieck, German member of the executive committee, who told the Communist congress a defensive war on behalf of democracy would be a fair war in which Communists should participate.

Three-Run Rally In Seventh Gives Berardi A. C. 5-4 Win

Staging one of the greatest rallies seen in the City League this year the Berardi A. C. came from behind in the last inning of their game with the North Rondout Social Club and won out by the close score of 5 to 4 at the Athletic Field, Thursday evening. They had to overcome a two-run lead to win and by doing so chalked up their second straight without a defeat.

An error by Mitchell of Malmes' grounders started the rally. Jimmy Berardi, diminutive outfielder, drew a pass and "Spot" Cullen singled to left field to crowd the sacks and keep the rally going. Malmes took a big lead off third base and Catcher Tomasoski tried to catch him. In his attempt he heaved a wild one over Third Baseman Turk's head and both Malmes and J. Berardi scurried home to tie the score. Cullen taking third on the play. Jack Murphy then dropped a bunt in front of the plate and Cullen raced home with the winning marker.

The Rondouters held the lead the biggest part of the game and looked like sure winners until they blew up in the last frame. Julius Chick and "Spot" Cullen did the hurting for the winners. Cullen receiving credit for the victory. He relieved Chick in the sixth inning after Chick complained of an injured knee. Each pitcher permitted four hits apiece.

Phil Komosa elbowed for the losers. He held the Berardis to five hits, but the ragged playing of his teammates spelled defeat for him.

The Rondouters scored the first run, which came in the second inning. Komosa opened with a singled to left field. E. Murphy sacrificed Komosa to second base in scoring position for "Coke" Tiano, who drove him home with a single to left field. Jimmy DeCicco scored another run for the Rondouters in the third. He reached first safely on R. DeCicco's error and went to second when Turk drew a pass. Mitchell sacrificed behind runners a base and Tomasoski poled a long fly to right field to allow DeCicco to register.

The Berardis evened matters in their half of the third. Hopper reached first on an error by J. DeCicco but was forced at second by Chick. J. Murphy also reached the bases on an error. Van Derzee then dropped a single into center field and Chick tallied. Vanderzee tried for second and was trapped but gave Murphy plenty of time to score before he was tagged out.

Singles by Turk and Tomasoski and a stolen base netted the Rondouters another run in the fifth. In the sixth they added on more on singles by E. Murphy and L. Tiano and a stolen base.

"Chapple" Vanderzee baffled the Rondouters' infielders with his base running in the third.

Phil Komosa came to Tomasoski's rescue in the third. Tomasoski dropped a high foul but Komosa was under it to make the putout.

All the hits were confined to singles so the case of Burgomaster is still safe for the week.

GAME TONIGHT

Foran's Foranets and Hercules' Powdermen will furnish the fireworks at the Athletic Field this evening at 8:15. These two teams have met three times this season and ten of the games resulted into ties, one being 1-1 and the other 2-2. In their other meeting the Powdermen stayed the game by a score of 2 to 0. Lefty Martin is slated to do the pitching for the Powdermen, but there is a possibility that Eddie Scherer will get the call. Al Short will do the catching. "Parker" Davis or Jack

Shields Returns to Tennis Wars After 8 Months in Hollywood

New York, August 2 (AP)—After eight months in Hollywood's film colony, Frank Shields is back in the east for the tennis wars and, he hopes, a higher national ranking. The former head-man of the nation's "first ten" is entered in the eastern grass court championships starting tomorrow at the Westchester Country Club, seeded No. 3 after Sidney Wood and young Frank Parker. After that he will play in the national championships.

"I keep in excellent condition on the Pacific coast, playing about 20 sets a week," said the powerfully-built star. "I think playing on cement courts helped my game but I can tell a lot better after the first round of the tournament." Shields, who is staying at Greenwich, Conn., never has won the eastern grass court title. Last year he was beaten in three sets by George M. Lott in the semi-finals. When he bowed to Vernon Kirby of South Africa in the national championships. Since going into the movies he has won the Southern California indoor title and the Olaj tournament, defeating Don Budge and Gene Mako, respectively, in straight sets.

"I'm keen for the tournament this year—much keener than last year, after we were beaten in the Davis Cup challenge round," he said. "I'm really serious about it and expect to play well enough at least to move up a notch in the national ranking."

On the whole, 1934 wasn't kind to him, and he was demoted from No. 1 to No. 3 when the new rankings were announced.

Wood will arrive Tuesday from Europe. He will receive a first round bye, but may be required to play two matches Tuesday afternoon to catch up with the field.

Block Park Seniors Defeat Athletics

The Senior Football team of Block Park nosed out the Athletics Field nine yesterday by a score of 6-5, in a hard fought game. This places Block Park in a tie for first place with Barnham's in the City Playground League.

The pitching of J. Schatzel and the hitting of Dittus and Smith featured the game. Schatzel allowed only five scattered hits and Dittus hit a double and a single while Smith got three singles.

Olympic Committee Takes Firm Stand

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—The American Olympic committee lined up today to combat any attempts to oppose American participation in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin.

Through Avery Brundage, its president, the committee replied to Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, who reiterated his opposition to the United States sending athletes to Berlin if charges of racial discrimination are proved.

Referring to the revival of opposition which followed the latest anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic activities in Germany, Brundage said: "Pledges satisfactory to the international and American Olympic committees have been made by Germany respecting the treatment of its own athletes as well as those of visiting countries."

"If it develops these promises have been broken, further consideration can be given to the subject by the American Olympic committee. So far we have had no reports whatsoever, official or otherwise, that Germany has failed to give Jewish athletes a fair opportunity to qualify for Olympic teams."

"It is my understanding, in fact, that in the case of Helene Mayer, champion women fencer, German sports leaders have sought earnestly to have her return from the United States to represent Germany in the Olympics."

Husband's Away, So Ethel Plays

And Regains Her Tennis Skill of '30, Earning Wightman Cup Squad Berth

By GREG HEWLETT

New York (AP)—Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles believes a wife's place is at home "and not all over the country playing tennis." That's the reason the young matron, a ranking star five years ago, has been in virtual retirement for several seasons. And the reason she found time this year to come east, where she's clinched a Wightman cup team berth, is that her husband had to go away from home on a business trip.

"My husband had to go away for five weeks," Mrs. Arnold explained. "I hated to stay home alone—most of my friends also were away—so I decided to spend the time in the east playing tennis."

The fact that her No. 1 southern California ranking for 1934 gained her an early-spring invitation to try for the Wightman squad—which she at first declined—of course influenced her to try the eastern circuit after finding out about Mr. Arnold's trip.

Although she plans to stay for the Wightman series early in August whether chosen to compete or not, Mrs. Arnold said emphatically she wouldn't stay for the national women's singles tournament.

Little, But a Socker! "My five weeks will be up before then," she said, "and I'm going to get home about the same time Albert does. Tennis doesn't mean that much to me any more."

Mrs. Arnold is a tiny person, about five-feet-one and weighing about 105 pounds. But her shots belie her size as she is a hard hitter with both forehand and backhand and depends upon her passing shots and placements from back court.

In 1929 she was No. 8 in the national ranking and she pushed up to No. 6 the following year. She was 20 years old then and had she continued she might well have gone on to the top. But she chose marriage instead and moved from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

She had a job as a secretary in the company which employed her husband and she had little time left for tennis.

What Ranking This Year?

But she kept in practice and played in occasional tournaments in the spring and fall around home. In

ETHEL BURKHARDT ARNOLD

"About five-feet-one and weighing 105, but her shots belie her size."

1933, she played a little more and last year she did so well she was ranked No. 1 in the southern district of California, ahead of Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles, who is ranked third nationally.

"That was probably because Kay Stammers beat Carolin in one tournament and I later beat Kay," Mrs. Arnold said.

The diminutive star returned to the "big time" eastern circuit in the Essex Country Club tournament at Manchester, Mass. She ran through the early rounds with ease and then defeated Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabryan of Brookline, Mass., No. 2 in the national list, in the final.

Then, seeded second to Mrs. Fabryan at Sea Bright, N. J., Mrs. Arnold swept through a fast field, whipping Catherine Wolf in the semi-finals after the Hoosier had upset Carolin Babcock, then all but blanking Gracy Wheeler in the final, 6-1, 6-0.

Ethel's 1935 ranking is problematical. Usually the standing is based on the "nationals," but if she does well against the English girls she very likely will gain a first 10 listing without even appearing at Forest Hills.

M'KECHNIE HEADS BOSTON BRAVES

Unable to regain control of the Boston Braves by obtaining 9,500 shares of stock, Emil Fuchs (right), president of the National League team, was forced to vacate his office to Bill McKechnie (left), his manager since 1930. (Associated Press Photos)

McKechnie May Be New Braves' President

Boston, Aug. 2 (AP)—The name of Manager Bill McKechnie was heard most often today as those fans discussed a successor to Emil Fuchs as president of the Boston Braves.

McKechnie took his team on the road last night pleading complete ignorance of the possibility of his becoming nominal director in the front office as well as actual leader on the field.

"I will do as I am ordered," McKechnie said as he started on the two weeks' road trip.

Charles F. Adams, now in full control of the Braves, kept silent on future plans. The Frick-Adams conference also might have to do with a sale of the Braves, Adams, whose interests include a large grocery chain, two professional hockey clubs and the Suffolk Downs horse race track, has expressed himself as wishing to get out of the baseball business.

Schenectady Black Sox Trip Huron Indians At Kristic Field

With sloppy fielding featuring their play the Huron Indians went down to defeat last night at Kristic Field, Rosendale, before the fast stepping Schenectady Black Sox.

Johnson and Toronti, both speed ball artists, handled the mound duty for the winners while Bill Thomas hurled them over for the Indians.

Thomas pitched a good game but received poor support from his mates. The Sox scored four runs in the first four frames and it was not until the fifth that Regan smacked out a home run for the Indians' first tally. The Black Sox scored three more in the seventh when Fahey was charged with three errors and Snyder with one. To make things really bad for the home team, Toronti, the Sox center fielder, tripped on a long one to right field and Cleveland singled which started the three run onslaught.

In the last half of the ninth the Hurons made a gallant bid and pushed two runs across. With two out and none on, H. Rask walked. Regan, C. Neff and Thomas singled in quick succession and Rask and Regan crossed the plate. P. Rask fanned to end the game.

Harold Jones, booking agent for the Black Sox, announced this morning that the colored stars would appear in Kingston on Sunday but that so far, an opposing team has not been picked. The Huron Indians will play another semi-pro team next week and it is expected that the experience gained by their game last night will help them a great deal for their battle.

THE STANDINGS

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Pennant races in successive years seldom resemble each other as closely as the Tiger-Yankee scrap for American League honors in 1934 and 1935.

Just a year ago Mickey Cochrane's rampaging Tigers had chalked up victory No. 2 on a 14-game winning streak that left the Yanks far behind. Today they were in the same position with their last two games recorded in the victory column.

On August 3, 1934, both teams had dropped 37 games, the same number of setbacks they have received this season. The Tigers, having played more games, held a three and one-half game lead today against only one game a year ago.

The Tigers widened the gap yesterday by turning back the last place St. Louis Browns 6 to 3 while their rivals were kept idle by the schedule. The third place Chicago White Sox missed an opportunity to tie the Yankees for second place by falling before the Cleveland Indians 8 to 3.

Earl Whitehill scored his ninth triumph of the season as he pitched the Washington Senators to a 9 to 5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Competition in the National League saw the Pittsburgh Pirates aid the faltering New York Giants by trimming the threatening Chicago Cubs 6 to 5. The defeat dropped the Cubs a full game back of the Giants, who were idle.

Dixie Dean failed to go the route but he received credit for his 17th victory of the season as the Cardinals defeated the Reds 7 to 5 with the temperature at 95 degrees.

In the only other National League contest, Tom Zachary was a little more effective in the pinches than Ben Cantwell as the Dodgers defeated the Braves 4 to 2.

ST. MARY'S SWAMPS CITIZENS SERVICE FOOTBALLERS, 14-8

The St. Mary's football team smothered the Citizen Service team last night at Macbuck Park by the lopsided score of 14-8. O'Rourke and Krenschloke formed the winning battery while Parmelee and DeBols worked for the Service team.

Features of the game were the hitting of John Grady and the one-handed catch of Tom Stinson. Cullen, the Citizen Service third baseman, smacked out a three batter for the longest hit of the game.

BUDGET BAKER-ARTIE SUES

FRONT DECLARED NO CONTENT

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP)—Buddy Baker, Babe's brother, may have to fight a suit in the Long Branch to collect a $744 purse for his last bout.

Buddy's share and the $231 for Artie's share of New Rochelle, N. Y., his opponent, were held up yesterday by George E. Roman, state boxing commissioner, after a hearing on their one-minute fight in Long Branch last Friday night.

James Hanley, referee, who declared the abrupt encounter "no contest," told Roman "Buddy just rushed him and hit him and this fellow just lay there like the chicken was on top of him."

SPORT SLANTS

Out of the ruins and disaster that beset the unfortunate Cleveland Indians, Joe Vosmik has risen to the top of the American League batting averages. It is the lone cause for cheering in Cleveland. Vosmik's climb to the top in the last few weeks has been watched with interest and the fact that Joe is a product of Cleveland's sand-lots rather serves to interest the Indians' followers.

Vosmik in the past has shown flashes of real batting form and generally managed to keep up among the leaders, but this year he is determined to make a real bid for the batting crown. Manager Walter Johnson has shifted the outfield star to the top of the batting order and Joe has responded by pounding out more hits than any other American leaguer.

Before the current pennant chase is under way it was freely predicted at Hal Trosky was destined to bring batting honors to Cleveland. That general opinion cast a light on Hal's batting eye, the big left baseman, who was one of the biggest sensations of 1934, went to a protracted slump and he dropped far down the list.

Averill's Fingers Heal. Trosky tried every possible remedy in a vain effort to regain his effectiveness at the plate. He changed his swing, shifted his stance and was considered returning to his original style of batting from the right side of the plate. But it was no go. Hal's failure to show even flashes of his last year's stick-work remains one of the mysteries of the recent season.

Earl Averill returned to the Cleveland line-up with two fingers taped as a reminder of his experience with a firecracker not long ago. In recent game against the Washington Senators, Averill knocked out a pair of doubles and two singles in four times at bat. His return is certain to help the Indians, but the damage done by his enforced absence can hardly be repaired.

Babe Dahlgren, the Boston Red Sox's young first baseman, thrilled fans with his remarkable fielding of thrown balls but seemed stunted for a speedy return to the majors because of his failure to hit league pitching.

Just when it looked as though the youngest was about to be sent out of the majors his average began to take on a healthier hue. Still has a long way to go before he takes on the color of a real major leaguer but the important thing is that it is climbing.

Drilled With Youngsters. Dahlgren's new found effectiveness at the plate can be traced to the morning batting sessions he took part in during the Red Sox's stay at Fenway Park. He took advantage of the daily work-outs for young players who aspire to become professionals under the tutelage of the club's manager, Joe Judge.

Wisely, he concentrated on meeting the ball squarely, making no effort to knock the ball out of the air. An easy, smooth swing was his objective. Before long he found himself meeting the ball solidly and hitting out hits to dead center field, and that was a mighty good sign.

The results of the morning practice sessions were quick in appearing. In the 15 games following he averaged 20 hits in 54 times at bat for an average of .370. That's a pretty hot place. Too hot for Dahlgren to hold for long, but it is an encouraging and certain to inspire him to renew his fight for a place in the big leagues with his bat.

New York—Wesley Ramer, 133, Grand Rapids, Mich., outpointed Rocky Keres, 131, Jersey City, N. J., 10.

Schenectady Black Sox to Play Forsts at Fair Grounds Sunday

Forst's Formost nine, one of the strongest teams in the City League, will tackle the Schenectady Black Sox at the Kingston Fair Grounds on Sunday afternoon. The game will start promptly at 3 o'clock. This will be the first appearance in Kingston of the famous Black Sox.

Manager Herbie Mills of the Forsts announced this morning that Warren Shackett and Jack Dodge will be on hand for mound duty with Gene Rider on the receiving end. The rest of the lineup will include Johnnie Carpenter at first, Gil Kelder at second, Bob Slicker at short and Ad. Stumpf at third. Lay, Knight and Merritt will take care of the outfield.

The Black Sox will present their strongest lineup and Amos Wright will probably get the mound call.

Boxing Bouts Tonight At Wallkill Prison

Three Kingston boxers—Ralph North, Kid Chapple and Leander Robinson—are scheduled to box at Wallkill Medium Security Prison on the card arranged for the entertainment of the inmates and the patronage of the public.

These boys have been training for their matches at the Legion Stadium under the direction of Matchmaker John J. Finerty, Jr., and hope to win. Each of them will box three rounds.

Indications are that tonight's fights at the prison will give plenty of action, some of the institution's best scrappers being billed to box. Starting time of the first bout is 8.30 o'clock.

City League Game Monday Evening

In order to get its schedule completed before the days get too short the City League will play a game on Monday evening. At this time the Hercules and the North Rondout Social Club will meet. The Social Club is the only outfit to hold a league win over the first-half champions.

Young Rickey Doing Well As A Baseball 'Exec,' But It's Law That Calls Him

Branch Rickey, Jr. (left) is making the grade as a baseball front office man, temporarily following the footsteps of his famous dad (right), but he's determined to chuck it for a legal career.

By FRED TOUNSLEY.
Albany, Ga. (AP)—The very blond young man, pausing in his task of signing semi-monthly pay checks for potential Dizzy Deans and Pepper Martins, shook his head with finality. "Not a chance," said he, "not a chance." Dad can represent the Rickeys in baseball, I'm going to be a lawyer.

Branch Rickey, Jr., son of the man who has been called the most important figure in baseball today, had just made a somewhat tragic discovery—a discovery which had disillusioned many before him, namely, that the road which offsprings of famous personages tread is not without stones.

Sent to Albany following his graduation from college this year to act as business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals' Georgia-Florida League farm, young Rickey has lost little time in concluding that a legal career holds greater opportunity for him than baseball. As Branch Rickey, Jr., he's supposed to set the woods on fire.

To Eschew "Chain Gang." Rickey has done a good job here, and if he cared to stick with the Cardinal organization—the "chain gang," as Dizzy Dean calls it—he'd probably go far. But he thinks the handicap of a famous father too great to overcome. The senior Rickey hasn't shown his offspring any favors. The conviction that he need expect no partiality was firmly planted in young Rickey's head by the first telegram he received from his father after taking hold at Albany.

After winning the first half of the league schedule, the Albany team suffered repeated injuries to players as the last-half chase began. Struck particularly hard was the pitching staff. With the situation acute, young Rickey wired his father: "Have only three starting pitchers. Please rush aid."

Built For Wrestling. Came the Senior Rickey's reply: "If you have three pitchers, congratulations I know some clubs that haven't any."

Young Rickey looks more as though he might belong to the wrestling ring than baseball. Incidentally, he did some wrestling in college. Of short stature, massive shoulders and with closely cropped hair, he fits the popular conception of the groaning goliath. But he shies from a wrestling career because of possible physical disfigurement and because he doesn't relish the contacts it would bring.

Graduated this spring from Ohio Wesleyan University, where he served as catcher on the baseball team and earned his numeral in football, the junior Rickey is operating the Albany club until law classes call him this fall. His present choice of legal colleges is the University of Michigan.

Young Branch has spent his vacations in various camps of the Cardinals absorbing knowledge. Although he doesn't think so, that knowledge may be valuable some day. He's certain now he wants to be a lawyer, but, after all, he's Branch Rickey's son.

Tennis Club Is All Set for Albany Trip

Manager Nick Fowler of the Kingston Tennis Club announced his lineup this morning for the battle with the Ridgefield Club at Albany Saturday afternoon.

Randall Rose who recently won the city championship for the second successive year, will play the first position. Bob Herzog and Stan Hancock will take care of the second and third places. Ed Strong will be in the fourth berth and Manager Fowler and Bon Joy will play five and six. Bill Merrill is the first reserve player and will see action in the doubles.

On Sunday afternoon the Kingston

Club will play host to the Monroe Tennis Club here in a return battle.

Cornell-Rescue Will Play Forst Monday

Monday evening the Cornell-Rescue Club will play the Forst softball team at Block Park. To make real entertainment for the occasion, Harry Sills and his famous Doodiedorfers will be on hand to furnish music for a parade of all members and rooters of both teams from the C and R. club rooms on Abel street to the scene of the battle. The Doodiedorfers will also furnish entertainment during the game. All members of both teams are urged to meet at the Cornell Fire Station on Monday at 6.15 to march to Block Park.

The U. P. A. will meet the fast stepping Berardi A. C. Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park. The Provisioners captured the first contest 5-3.

The Berardis have Lou Glenn, Julius Chick, Spot Cullen and Bill Seekers available for mound duty with Zadany or Tiano behind the plate, while Eddie Murphy, Jon Scully and Ken Williams are ready to work for the U. P. A. with Don Kelly behind the plate.

Celebrate Conservation. All trails will lead to Lake Placid on September 12, 13 and 14 for New York state sportsmen who are interested in joining with the State Conservation Department to celebrate 50 years of conservation in New York.

These 50 years have witnessed the development of game propagation, fish culture, the biological survey, game research and, recently game management.

To celebrate the progress of these years, the Conservation Department has planned three days of sporting events at Lake Placid which will include trap, skeet rifle, pistol shooting, bait and fly casting events. There will be two sets of events. One, known as the county events, will allow one entry only from each county in the state. The other, known as the free-for-all events, will permit any member of a sportsman's association to compete. Valuable prizes to the amount of approximately $1,000 will be given to the winners. The events will not require any entry fee from those wishing to participate.

President Roosevelt will speak on Saturday evening, the 14th, and "Dick" Darline, long known for his cartoons and his conservation work in Iowa, and more recently as the able chief of the United States Biological Survey, will speak on Friday evening the 13th. A colorful pageant will depict the history of the Adirondacks from the days of the Indian to modern times. The Lake Placid Arena, developed for the Olympic games, will serve as a spacious headquarters for the celebration.

It is expected that some members of the Ulster County Fish & Game Association will be among those present at the celebration. Any member who desires to participate in any of the above free-for-all events during the three days should communicate with Secretary Wright of the Ulster County Fish & Game Association, an entry of contestants in the events is desired by the Conservation Department by August 17. Further detailed information may also be secured from the secretary. Call 2711.

Five thousand rainbow trout fingerlings have been released in the Esopus during the past week. This is an increase of 1,000 over 1934, with the thought in mind that the Esopus, now a semi-natural stream due to the added water from the reservoir at Glibou, may prove to be to the liking of rainbow trout.

A good deed done unsuspectingly for the cause of conservation, was performed by Ray Caunitz last Saturday. Ray removed from the Esopus a four pound wall-eyed pike caught on a number five hook while fishing for trout. This fish would certainly have continued to destroy a good many trout had it not been caught.

Have you read Ellwood Colahan's article, "Trout in Fast Water" in the current issue of "Field and Stream"? Here is a lot of practical information on trout fishing. It is mentioned because Mr. Colahan, a resident of New York City, has been a member of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association for a good many years. Watch for his next month's article, "Trout in Slow Water" to be published in the same monthly.

Here's a tip to the hunter who is waiting patiently for the fall season. Point the old gun toward Delmar, N. Y. (just outside of Albany) and when you arrive with the Conservation Department Game Farm where they are propagating partridge in captivity. It is a rather pleasant feeling to have one of these old cock partridges perch on your arm totally unafraid, and then recall the number of times you have sent a charge of 7's in the general direction of what appeared to be winged lightning.

but ... it's the LITTLE THINGS that count...

New drapes for the guest room, and Junior's first haircut. A new recipe for peach pie and new pans for baking it. A picnic at the beach, and a new hat for the weekly bridge. Every day events? Of course! But they're the things that make life livable!

What's a war in Illyria and another arctic expedition, compared to the thrill of the first glimpse of the family that's moving in next door, and the delivery of a shining new refrigerator? What's a royal wedding, and twelve rooms filled with gifts, when Anne has her fifth birthday tomorrow? They're interesting enough, something to talk about, to wonder at, perhaps, but pretty far away from that most important spot and the people who live there . . . Your own home.

That's where your heart is, and that's where the real thrills lie, in the things that concern you and the people who live around you, next door, in the next block, anywhere in town. There's news about them in every issue of the Daily Freeman, in "inside page" stories—and in every ad too, for the ads in The Freeman are news! There's news about new clothes for the family, and new food for the table, and new furniture for the home. There's news about new entertainment and new ways to get to it. There's news about something new on every page, from the latest dispatch on the front page to the new shoes for Anne on the last . . . all written to you and for you, put up in a neat package and delivered at your door-step every day.

Heat and Storms Fatal
To 10 Yesterday in the Eastern Part of Country

"Twister" Churns Great South
Bay in Long Island, Upsetting
Fishing Boats and Other Craft on Angry Waters.

OTHER DAMAGE

Central New York Hard Hit Again
By Fresh Damage From Rain,
Hail and Wind.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP)—At least 10 persons were dead today from the heat and storms which descended on the eastern part of the country yesterday.

A "twister" which struck fishing boats in the great south bay on the southern shore of Long Island caused the loss of two lives and brought the report of two other persons missing.

One man lost his life when he was trapped in the cabin of a 45-foot fishing boat, Elsie II, which was overturned as it was making for shore. Three other men in the cabin were rescued, together with seven other occupants of the boat.

The coast guard received a report that two persons were thrown into the sea when their sailing canoe capsized. An all night search was made for them without success.

Lightning killed a woman at Potomac, N. Y., and a negro farm-hand near Brunswick, N. J.

A 12-year-old boy was killed when a sudden squall hurled him against a brick wall at Newington, Ont.

Torrential rain, which struck parts of New Jersey and New York, did vast damage to crops, felled transmission lines and unroofed a number of houses.

The recently flood-devastated district in central New York was one of the hardest hit areas in yesterday's storms.

Westchester county and sections of Long Island also were hit hard, with New York city itself escaped with hardly any rain.

Four persons drowned during the day, three of them in New Jersey.
A woman identified as Mrs. Addie Huisman, 35, of 1,056 Madison avenue, Jersey City, was stricken with a heart attack at Rye Beach and died a short time later.

Refuses Robbers to Open Vault of Bank

East Windsor, Conn., Aug. 2 (AP)—
Howard Warner, 50-year-old cashier of the Broad Brook Bank and Trust Company, outbluffed three would-be robbers today, flatly refusing to obey their orders to open the bank vault and concealing from them the fact that a brief case in his hands contained $8,000.

The two men, awaited outside in an automobile by a companion, fled from the bank without loot when Warner calmly ignored their warning that he would be given only five minutes to open the vault.

Warner said he reached the bank about 8:30 (Eastern Daylight Time) this morning and was confronted by two men with revolvers who told him: "We're here for money and we're going to get it."

The cashier had just obtained
$8,000, sent the bank by registered mail, at the postoffice, he said, and was carrying it in a brief case when he came into the bank. The men paid no attention to the case as he set it aside and told them he would not open the vault.

Upon his refusal the men said they would give him until they "counted five" to comply with their demand, the cashier said. After arguing with him for about five minutes the men left the bank and drove away in a westerly direction toward the Hartford-Springfield, Mass., highway.

Daniel V. Noble of Third avenue, who was appointed an inspector in the water department during the Carey administration, has been dropped from the payroll of the water department. Mr. Noble received notice the first of the month that his services were no longer needed. As yet no one has been appointed to succeed him.

It will be recalled that the water board at its last meeting directed that all employees undergo a physical examination, and yesterday ten men employed by the board at Lake Hill and vicinity were laid off and directed to undergo physical examinations to qualify for future employment. Their places were filled from a waiting list.

mitted slaying of Luther Broadway,

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, August 2.—Sunday School and church services have been discontinued until September. Emma Maud Denman of Oswego is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Van Aken.

Albert Rinehold and friend of New York city were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Story. The Weiser cottage and Ulster Park Rest have a number of city guests.

The solo, "I Love to Tell the Story," rendered by Miss Betty Ann Jahn at the church services Sunday morning, was greatly appreciated. Members of the Sunday School class of Mrs. Holt N. Winfield enjoyed a picnic at Mirror Lake Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Bits about NBC broadcasters: Paul Whiteman has a passion for green-tinted shirts. John S. Young attributes his adoption of radio announcing as a career to his practice of talking to himself as a child. Charles J. AT SUMMER THEATRES

Maverick—"The Distaff Side"
Distaff, according to the dictionary, means "The woman's side, the female side of the family," and this definition applies perfectly to the play, "The Distaff Side," written by John Van Drutan, and appearing for the remainder of the week at the Maverick Theatre. The Robert Elwyn troupe, has industriously applied itself to this vehicle, which is as different in temper from the production last week, as day from night, and with good results has brought another "hit" of last season's New York fare to Ulster county.

The humor for the most part is infrequent and quiet the play moving along serenely until the last two scenes, where the action picks up bringing a stirring climax. As indicated by the title the play is concerned with a mother, whose helpmate has died five years before and who saddled with a large family of relatives, friends and children, spends her life straightening out mixed up affairs. All of the occupants of her house at one time or another suggests and plan to make life more exciting for her, but she will have none of it, and lives to the conclusion of the play her motto that love and a good husband are the essentials of life. As a widow life is an anti-climax but she believes that her life is the more filled and is willing and happy serving others in a simple way.

In contrast are a daughter, who has a serious affair; a sister, who is known as "fast"; another sister concerned with clinics for fallen women rather than marriage; still another, who doesn't seem to know just what she wants or how to live; a mother who is selfish and others who are of different mental make-up. Each has a problem, and the mother aids in bringing about a happy solution for all.

Mr. Elwyn's company must be complimented on handling such a difficult assignment with such grace. The play moves smoothly with the exception of several failures to get the lines down, but no doubt this will improve with each performance. Especially good are the settings and costumes. An augmented cast was required to stage the play, and favorites and new comers all do well. Mr. Elwyn in a curtain speech called attention to the part of Nellie, one of the sisters, played by Jane Merdeth. Miss Merdeth is subbing for a sick actress, and Ulster county friends

Former Liquor Dealer Shot
Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP)—A man in a blue sedan today shot and seriously wounded Irving Prenisler, 32, said by police to have been a liquor dealer in prohibition days. With two bullet wounds, Prenisler was taken to a hospital (St. Mary's) where he refused to talk to police. His assailant jumped from the car and fled as he walked along Buffalo avenue.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH SERVICES ANNOUNCED

England's Woolen Industry
In the Middle Ages the chief source of the wealth of England was the woolen industry; it was in honor of wool that the Lord Chancellor was seated upon a wool-sack. The custom still continues.

Traffic Cases in Police Court Here

Homer DeWitt, a negro of Lomontville, was arrested last night for driving a Ford car without having a driver's license. The arrest followed a complaint made to the police by Walter Sopher of 164 Highland avenue, who stated that DeWitt's car had struck his car on Broadway, near West Chester street, damaging it. This morning in police court DeWitt pleaded guilty to operating a car without having a driver's license. He said he was the owner of the car and told the judge that he had never had a driver's license. Judge W. H. Gill who presided over police court today imposed a fine of $5.

Leslie E. Jungling of Jersey City, arrested for speeding 47 miles an hour on Albany avenue, was fined $10.

Edna Klemm of Saugerties and Oda Rich of this city, were each fined $2 on Thursday for passing full stop signs. Rich was fined an additional $5 for operating a car without a driver's license.

Eleanor T. Cunningham of Hollis, L. I., was fined $10 for speeding on Albany avenue.
